

Bill Walton

Bill Walton is a Wall Street veteran and Washington insider who spent time in Hollywood along the way – giving him a unique take on how money, culture, and power intersect to shape politics in our nation’s Capitol.

A frequent media commentator, Bill currently hosts The Bill Walton Show, which focuses on in-depth conversations with leaders, entrepreneurs, and thinkers.

For 12 years Bill served as Chairman & CEO of Allied Capital, managing a portfolio of over $9 billion in assets. He has served as a leader and board member for several leading national organizations including the Heritage Foundation, American Conservative Union (CPAC), American Enterprise Institute, Media Research Center, Council for National Policy (President), US Chamber of Commerce, and the National Venture Capital Association.

His cultural interests include philanthropic leadership for The National Symphony Orchestra (President), Kelley School of Business (Chairman), Wolf Trap Center for the Performing Arts and the National Gallery of Art. He also founded Rush River Entertainment, producing a number of Hollywood films.

In 2016, Bill served on the Donald J. Trump Presidential Transition Team, co-chairing the transition efforts for all Federal economic agencies, including the Department of Treasury and the IRS.

Bill Walton brings savvy and clarity on economic and fiscal issues to quickly break down complex topics into clear insights.
